

Have you been treated fairly?

If you think a provincial or local government agency has not treated you fairly and you haven't been able to solve the problem, the B.C. Ombudsperson's office might be able to help.

The Ombudsperson's office can investigate complaints about:

Provincial ministries, commissions, boards and Crown corporations, as well as local governments, school boards, health authorities, colleges and universities, and professional associations.

We

- ◆ Assist in finding fair resolutions
- ◆ Provide free and confidential services
- ◆ Act independently and impartially
- ◆ Work in the interests of all British Columbians

1-800-567-3247
www.bcombudsperson.ca

ombudsperson
B.C.'s Independent Voice For Fairness